Vandals Smash Windows

Vandals smashed more than 100 windows with rocks and beer bottles at Capuchino High School in San Bruno Monday. San Mateo Union High School District officials had not yet placed at least a final figure on the loss, but it was expected at least amount to $1200. The damage was not confined to specific classrooms or offices, Assistant Principal Gordon Young said. "There was damage throughout the campus, wherever there was exterior access to the glass. Although some rocks were used, most of the damage came from beer bottles, many unopened, some of which themselves broke on the floors inside the classrooms, Young said. There appeared to be no motivation. "It was just destructive vandalism," he said. "There was no real purpose behind it, except to do what was done."

Undergrounding Dilemma

Shortening of Trolley Line Near D.C. Is Involved

Undergrounding of utilities along Mission Street in Daly City has created something of a dilemma for city fathers. Between the Top of the Hill business district and the San Francisco County line a municipal trolley bus operates on electrical power supplied by overhead poles. The city council is expected to agree with Woods and let the power poles stand. But residents of the proposed underground district may disagree with a decision that would allow the trolley poles to stand while they must pay for connecting homes and businesses to the underground system. The present line 14 is a "turn-around" route that enters Daly City along Mission and loops back towards San Francisco along San Jose Avenue. Without the trolley bus a section of the city would be without scheduled transportation. There is no indication San Francisco would replace the electric buses with conventional gas-operated vehicles.

Preliminary costs of the conversion — which would erase the unsightly overhead wires and poles — is $320,000. Money for the improvements will come from certain funds paid to the city by the PG&E Company on an annual basis. Because of the total project costs, PG&E has suggested Daly City insert appropriate time schedules in any resolution adopted in order that sufficient funds can be accrued over the next several years.

Planners in San Bruno Balk at Rezone Plan

San Bruno Planning Commissioners again balked against rezoning a six-acre site behind the Pacific Heights Shopping Center. Developer Perry Liebman had proposed rezoning the site, originally designated for expansion of the shopping center, for an apartment project of 175 units. Of all the plans presented over the years, this one seemed likeliest to pass. One previous apartment plan had gone as high as 283 living units; one last year had called for 220 units. Developers' representatives had consulted with neighborhood representatives—whose vehement opposition had helped kill previous plans—and there appeared to be less opposition Monday night than ever before. Reynold H. Colvin, attorney for Liebman, told the commissioners how, in an effort to appease the homeowners, he had eliminated 26 bedrooms from plans presented at the previous meeting, so that instead of having 61 one-bedroom and 114 two-bedroom apartments, there would be 88 two-bedroom and 87 one-bedroom units instead. In addition, he said, his firm would consider converting as many as 10 one-bedroom units to bachelor studio apartments, so that worried neighbors could be certain no children would live there. Covlin cited figures from the Laguna Salada School District which showed that the 1159 apartment units in the school district (all of which are in Pacifica) yielded but 245 children. On that ratio, he said, these apartments would yield only 30 children, if children were permitted. With the complex valued at $3½ million, the school district would make a substantial profit from the project, in taxes. The shopping center itself, he added, is dying and the project supplied its only hope. Architect Irving Caster presented plans showing the 11-building complex, with swimming pool, recreation building, clumps of trees and extensive landscaping. Mrs. Carolyn Livengood said that the Pacific Heights Improvement Association approved the project, but that residents had several misgivings, over traffic and density. Commissioner Leon Miller, a Pacific Heights resident, also (Please See Page 2, Column 5)

D.C. Council Questions Lighting

The question of street lighting is expected to delay acceptance of a tentative map for a proposed subdivision in the eastern section of Daly City.

George Menzoian asked the city council at a public study session Monday for preliminary approval of the subdivision plan. If necessary the plan could later be amended, Menzoian explained.

But several questions, including street lighting of a rear driveway, made the council balk at the idea of any conditional approval.

City Atty. Albert Polonsky advised the council not to take any action on the matter until all questions had been satisfied.

The area is bounded by Hoffman, Chester, Wyandotte and Lisbon streets. Several glass hothouses are located in the area.

Councilman Louis J. Papan expressed concern over children moving into the new subdivision.

He said the combination of the glass houses and an ample supply of rocks in the neighborhood might entice some children to go on a rock-throwing spree.

Both Papan and Councilman Frank Pacelli agreed that a system of lighting a 28-foot rear easement-driveway should be mapped out.

Menzoian explained that each individual homeowner of the "Podesta Manor" development would be responsible for lighting and maintenance of a portion of the rear property.

The homes, according to Menzoian's plan, would be built on 2500 square foot lots and have rear access to garages.

Easements would be taken from each property owner to form a 28-foot-wide driveway through the property.

The question of "half streets" was also discussed by the council. It was felt proposed half streets should be completed.

Treasurer in 'Conflict'?

Charge Is Leveled Against Official in South S.F.

South San Francisco City Treasurer John J. Bonalanza was accused on Monday of having invested $3.7 million of the city's funds in a bank where he maintains a rent-free office, is a stockholder, and was once an officer.

The conflict of interest charge was made by Don Gamma, past president of Citizens for Responsible Government, at a city council meeting.

Gamma made his accusation in requesting that the city retain a private consultant to evaluate its yield on an estimated $7 million investment portfolio that includes $6.4 million deposited in six different banks.

John J. Bonalanza

The city council denied his request.

Later, Gamma called the city's investment policy "unintelligent and unprofessional."

He said the city's return on its investments is only 5 per cent annually and that this is less than the amount garnered by many cities of South San Francisco's size.

"Any dummy can come up with more than a 5 per cent return," he contended.

Mayor William Borba vehemently defended the city treasurer.

"I have faith in the city treasurer," he said. "I have faith in (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Trustees Veto Proposals San Bruno Park School

Establishment of a professional library at each San Bruno Park School was authorized by trustees Monday.

The board also approved a plan to allow each district teacher to request one paid educational visitation or conference day each school year. The district would provide a substitute.

They held over for further study, however, a proposal under which a teacher on maternity leave may have two years leave of absence and then "be given strong consideration for re-employment... at the salary step for which she was eligible when the maternity leave was granted."

They rejected, however, proposals that:

1. There be three reporting periods replacing the present four.
2. Children be marked by a check indicating "satisfactory progress" or for "greater growth needed" in place of the A-F marking system in grades 1-5.

3. There be two cards, one for primary grades 1-3 and another for grades 4-5.

4. Conferences be conducted after the first grading period.

It was proposed that the four-prong plan be on a pilot basis for one year, at the end of which an extensive evaluation will be made.

In reporting on the proposals, Asst. Supt. Ted Jackson noted that he and the other district representatives battled it out on every issue with the Teachers Council "but we came up with good, solid compromises."

He explained that it was felt that waiting for 60 days for the first report card period, instead of 45 days, would give the teacher a chance to give a better evaluation of how the child is doing. Having the last reporting period 60 days before the end of the semester gave the child with deficiencies a chance to correct them before the end of the school year.

He proposed that the plan just be tried for a year and then evaluate it to determine its success.

Although the grading would only be on a two-point system, he added, teachers would be encouraged to add their comments to the report card grade.

Trustee Leonard Sarkon could not see it.

"The problem has been said to be in communication with parents," he objected. "Now we are proposing to communicate less often."

In addition, he did not feel that the program could be properly evaluated if it were to include all the children — without any control groups to use for comparison.

"I don't see how you can gain more information by being given less information," he concluded.

Other trustees expressed their objections to the A-F system of grading, but indicated that there appeared at present to be no better method that parents would accept, of telling parents how their children are doing in school.

Bruno Budget Is Still Up by $98,000

City Councilmen have found San Bruno's municipal budget still nearly $98,000 higher than last year's, despite a series of budget meetings at which plans for projects have been rejected. The councilmen are just waiting it out now, until the next budget session on June 30.

Acting city manager Leo Van Dusen says that he expects to have better information by that time on how much the city might receive in sales taxes, cost of general insurance, results of wage negotiations and new assessed valuations.

Van Dusen is in daily negotiation with six city employee organizations, particularly the firemen, and progress is excellent.

Aid Delay Rapped by Supervisor

The state legislature was soundly scolded on Monday for keeping the counties in the dark about how much state help will be given in 1971-72 to local mental health programs.

"They know the deadlines we are working with," San Mateo County Supervisor Jean Fassler declared. "It's unfair to put us in the position of trying to outwit the legislature. It's a crime, really, because it is one of the most important fields we are working with and has such a tremendous impact on so many people."

Because of indecision about what the state will or will not do, the Board of Supervisors postponed final action on the county's mental health budget for the coming fiscal year.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes, sticking to a fixed cost-sharing formula of 90 per cent state and 10 per cent county, has recommended a $5.4 million mental health budget for the coming fiscal year, down $1.8 million from 1970-71. The reduced budget, he said, is the result of state cutbacks.

If his recommendation is followed, the mental health program, acclaimed as one of the best in the nation and used as a model for other counties, will be sharply curtailed and 111 positions, 52 of which are presently filled, will be eliminated.

Dr. George Pickett, director of health and welfare, urged the board yesterday to allocate an additional $1 million from the (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Supervisors Act

Welfare, Social Service Big Items for Budget

Social service and welfare aid programs accounting for 35 per cent of the $126 million San Mateo County budget recommended for 1971-72 were approved Monday by the Board of Supervisors.

Most were approved with little debate because they are regulated by the state and federal governments, which pay most of the cost.

One item, $1.6 million for general assistance, which is a 100 per cent county expense, was given only tentative approval. Board member William M. Werder said he hoped $100,000 could be deleted.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes was asked to review that matter prior to final adoption of the budget, along with a request by the California Association of Residential Care Homes for county supplementation of state support.

Howard Seligman, a Stockton attorney representing the association, said the 91 homes in San Mateo county are going in the hole at the rate of $700 a year per guest. The state pays $220 a month per guest, Seligman said, while the average cost is $9.38 a day per guest, not allowing for any return on the owner's investment.

State law provides that counties may supplement the state payment up to $70 a month, Seligman told the board. He did not ask for any specific amount but noted that Santa Clara County pays $27 a month and Marin County $33.

Forty residential care home operators appeared at the board meeting with Seligman. The homes serve the aged, senile and incompetent, he said.

Major budget items approved yesterday included: Social Service Division, $8,316,184; Old Age Security, $6,917,526; Aid to Families with Dependent Children, $20,594,030; Aid to the Totally Disabled, $6,243,416.

Budget hearings in Redwood City resume at 9 a.m. Wednesday with county hospitals first on the agenda.

Veteran Principal Quits the JESD

A veteran Jefferson Elementary School District teacher and principal Marjorie Tobias resigned unexpectedly Thursday.

Miss Tobias, who has been in the Daly City-Colma district since 1926, told Supt. Frank Greenwood that she was quitting at the conclusion of her current contract, June 30.

She would have been eligible for retirement in about a year, Greenwood said.

Miss Tobias has been principal of the Vista Mar school since 1957, and has been the opening principal for several other of the community's schools.

She came to the district as a fifth grade teacher. She became a teaching vice principal of the Woodrow Wilson school in 1931, and was selected principal of Colma School after its construction in 1943.

Miss Tobias was principal of both Olympia and Benjamin Franklin Schools when they were opened in 1954, then of Vista Mar and Olympia in 1957 when Vista Mar was built.

The Jefferson Council of P-TA's Monday night approved a resolution calling on trustees to reject her letter of resignation.

Greenwood said Miss Tobias' resignation was received shortly after 4 p.m. last Thursday. He was able to contact her on Friday, he said, and attempted to persuade her to reconsider her decision.

He said she told him that while she was resigning from the district, she hoped to be able to stay on as a part-time educational consultant when specific jobs had to be done.

Her letter of resignation indicated she chose to resign after the conclusion of the school year to avoid fanfare.

Greenwood said that although the board last night was expected to seek her reconsideration, the trustees must accept the resignation within one fiscal year.

The superintendent said he believed her reason for quitting was "just plain old stress and the nature of the whole educational picture."

property tax fund to maintain the program at its present level. "I think we should ignore the 90-10 formula," Dr. Pickett told the board, "and think about this county, what it needs, what it can afford and what it cannot do without."

The director outlined alternative levels of service that could be put into effect according to the amount of money that is available. The budget recommended by Tarshes would pay for little more than maintaining the county's four regional mental health centers, the emergency and inpatient service at Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo, the cost of administration and the county's share of the cost of state hospitals.

For an additional $1 million, Dr. Pickett said, the regional centers could be expanded and a number of central supporting services could be retained. The emphasis, he said, would be on programs known to reduce dependence upon state hospitals. Dr. Pickett said the county has been assured by the state Department of Mental Hygiene that, subject to legislative approval, $500,000 would be transferred from the state hospital fund to the local program—if the county can reduce its use of state hospitals by one-third.

It is also possible, Dr. Pickett said, that as much as $300,000 in supplemental state funds will be available. That will depend upon a legislative conference for Friday.

For another $450,000, the directors told the board, the county could save a number of contract services and restore the program to its present level. Dr. Pickett warned that failure to spend the additional money could result in higher costs in the long run as recipients looked to other departments for compensatory services.

"We do believe there could be substantial penalties," he said.

Supervisor Robert St. Clair at first said he would not vote to supplement Tarshes' recommendation with additional funds, "based on ability to pay, rather than need." Later, however, he indicated that he might vote to restore the county's cost to its 1970-71 level. Last year the county's share was $778,882. As proposed by Tarshes, it could be $604,101 in 1971-72.

A dozen persons spoke to the board for and against the proposed cuts. Among them, E. Hoffman Price, representing the Taxpayers Action Council, said he did not question the values of the program but doubted that all in the county could afford the additional taxes.

"There are those of us who have reached the end of the rope," he told the board.

Ruth Harris, of San Bruno, representing the People's Revolt Against Taxes, said: "Our first priority is to live. If we cannot afford to live, all other things become secondary."

Robert Payne of the Government Research Council said it would be a "dangerous precedent" for the county to exceed its 10 per cent share.

"The county cannot afford to pick up the deficit in this program," he declared.

Dion DuBois, member of the citizens committee for the North County Mental Health Center, urged the board to increase taxes for the program, stating that the taxpayers will understand. L. M. Summey spoke for the Suicide Prevention Center, which would lose its financial support under the cutback proposal.

"By saving a dollar today," Summey told the board, "you may be spending several more tomorrow."

Dr. H. D. Hebert, an East Palo Alto pediatrician, noted that many of the services proposed to be cut are in children's services.

"Our number one priority," he told the board, "should be the preservation and salvation of our most precious resource, our children."

Others who spoke against the cuts included Mrs. Ann DeCarli, representing the League of Women Voters; Basil Emery, vice president of the San Mateo branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; T. Jack Foster, president of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council; and Elroy Naczek, an Atherton gardener and a program recipient. "If that is sound fiscal policy," Naczek said of the proposed cuts, "someone is crazier than I am."

Murder Count Is Dismissed

Charges of murder and attempted murder against Robert C. Windham, 31, of 201 Woodrow Street, Daly City, were dismissed on Friday when he pleaded guilty to lesser charges of voluntary manslaughter and assault with a deadly weapon.

Superior Court Judge W. Howard Hartley scheduled sentencing for 9 a.m. July 9 and set bail at $25,000. Windham has been held in county jail without bail since his arrest March 1.

The mayor did not — and would not when asked — specifically deny the validity of Gamma's charges.

Mayor Borba said that he did not know where Gamma got his information but insisted that Gamma "could be wrong."

Only Councilman William Steinkamp agreed with Gamma that the matter should be looked into. He said the city might benefit from special expertise.

"I'm of the opinion that we should have a financial type officer as part of the staff," he said.

City Treasurer Bonalanza, who was not present at last night's session, said this morning that the allocation of the bulk of the city's investments to a single bank was a prerogative of his office.

"I don't see why anyone should worry about where I invest the money as long as I get the best service and the best interest," he said.

As to whether the money might yield more interest elsewhere, Bonalanza said that anyone who didn't like the current return could get himself elected and change it.

"Tell Gamma that he can have the job," he said.

Ticks Reported Biting Children

Children playing in an undeveloped section of Serramonte are being bitten by ticks the Daly City council was informed Monday.

Mrs. James De Vincenzi, of the Junipero Serra School P.T.A., said some small children in the neighborhood bordering the area have suffered severe bites from the tiny bloodsucking insects.

Acting immediately on the complaint, city manager David Rowe contacted the County Health Department in an effort to wipe out the ticks.

Meanwhile, people have been warned to keep their children—and themselves—from wandering through brushy areas in Serramonte.

Hansen Retires

George F. Hansen finished his last day of work at San Francisco International Airport Wednesday, and went into what he calls active retirement.

Now 65, Hansen was deputy director, operations and maintenance. He has reached the mandatory age of retirement for San Francisco city employees, but says he does not intend to quit working.

Instead, he has taken on the task of running the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce's NorCal STOL (short take-off and landing) program to promote development and use of these special design aircraft.

expressed misgivings about access to the project, and traffic problems. He said he believed a further reduction of about 20 units was needed.

Commissioners Bill Cox and Bob Tonnesen joined him in opposition. Backing the project were Jim Hensel and Girvin Whitney. Chairman Victor Ogrey did not vote, and Paul Supanics, a former businessman in Pacific Heights who might have been expected to support the project, was not present—so the project was defeated 3-2.

Liebman has 15 days in which to appeal the ruling.

Only other action Monday night was the granting of a request for a use permit and rear yard variance for a Foreign Car Service to E. D. Grauf, for the 900 block of El Camino Real. Grauf is taking over the former Culligan Soft Water office and is building an addition.

Representatives of Tanforan Park were present to discuss plans for the Emporium and a Mall extension, as well as double-deck parking. A hearing on the plan was set for the July 5 meeting.

Ryan Urges State Help

An all out effort at the state level is the answer to San Mateo County's mental health services dilemma, according to Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan.

In a letter to Dr. Alec Skolnick, chairman of the County Mental Health Advisory Board, Ryan said the county should not be expected to impose additional tax levies to support the program, and that it would be unwise to make further cuts in services.

"The third alternative, then," Ryan said, "is to make an all-out effort at the state level to maintain the quality and the caliber of our mental health services."

The letter was placed in the official record of the Board of Supervisors yesterday by member Robert St. Clair, who commented:

"Here's a legislator saying in writing that the state is the bad guy in the black hat."

The board must make a decision within a week whether to put additional property taxes into mental health to compensate for reductions in state support or to order severe cutbacks in services.

In the letter to Dr. Skolnick, Ryan said, "It is my feeling that we are facing a tragedy of significant proportions if we lose our history-making mental health services because of insensitivity and irresponsibility on the state level.

"In 1970-71 the legislature appropriated enough funds to maintain the caliber of service that the people of this county deserve. However, this year, Governor Reagan, in a legitimate desire to cut government spending, pulled the financial rug from under us by cutting over $2 million from the state support budget."

Ryan called for an "outpouring of public support" to convince Reagan that the support must be restored.

Millbrae Commissioners Protest Panel Formation

Protesting and angry, the five members of Millbrae's one-year-old Beautification Commission heard the City Council end their jobs last week.

Members of the council adopted an ordinance that will formally dissolve the commission 120 days from now, and repeated earlier promises to replace the commission with a larger committee which will include teen-age voting members. They said they hoped the five commission members would accept re-appointments to the committee.

Chairman John Brucato said he, personally, would not accept re-appointment to a nine-member committee with which the council intends to replace the commission. At least three other commissioners indicated that they, too, will not accept a job on the committee.

"It's a demotion," said Brucato. "I think this commission has done a good job for the city."

"This is too important a matter to pass from a commission to a committee. I wonder if it isn't something that should be decided by the people of Millbrae? Perhaps you should have a public hearing."

"If the commission were not doing its job, I'd say abolish it, but we've accomplished quite a bit."

"I would take the formation of a committee, instead of a commission, as a demotion, and I'm not about to take a demotion."

Brucato pleaded with the Council to at least extend the effective date for ending the commission, which would have been 30 days from last night, if the proposed ordinance were adopted unchanged.

"Give us time to complete this one project," he said. "We are about to accomplish something with the Southern Pacific that the city will be proud of, and I'd like to go out with a little respect, instead of a boot."

Councilmen said they felt Brucato and his fellow commissioners were placing too great an importance on the change from one group formation to another.

They said again and again that their intent is not to reduce beautification, but to increase it, and to expand the beautification group.

By forming a committee, councilmen said, the organization would be more flexible, and they would be better able to expand its membership.

For starters, they have agreed to name two local high school students to the committee as voting members and to name a council member as non-voting chairman.

Commissioners continued to insist that the council had some other motive, which was denied. Two points became clear in the discussion, however.

One is that the council was satisfied with the way Councilman Harold Purpus led a "Spur Committee" last fall to decide on disposition of a strip of former highway right-of-way through the city. The new beautification committee form is patterned after the spur committee.

Another point on which councilmen disagree with Brucato and beautification commissioners is the matter of statements to newsmen. Brucato has often issued news releases to local papers, and has made comments to reporters.

"We want everything funneled through the city," said Mayor

James O'Connor. "If a councilman is chairman, everything will funnel through him, back to the council."

The commission now has 120 days to complete its arrangements to beautify the Southern Pacific railway station area that serves as Millbrae's main entry port.

Council members agreed to ask the two prospective teen-age members of the proposed beautification committee, to serve on the commission as non-voting members, until the 120 days are ended. The young people had already informally accepted their appointments to the committee, Mayor O'Connor said.

Mother, Son Are Killed

A 19-year-old mother from Millbrae and her six-week-old son were killed in a truck-auto accident south of San Jose Friday morning.

Dead are Mrs. Frances Betts of 1390 El Camino Real and her son, Jason. In fair condition is a second child, Mya, 18 months.

According to California Highway patrolmen, customers at the 15-Mile House in the Coyote area, said Mrs. Betts had stopped to change a $20 bill and left. They reported her car took off heading for Gilroy when it was hit by a truck and trailer driven by Leo Benzler, 49, of South San Francisco. The Betts auto was sent hurtling over a guardrail and into a drainage ditch.

Benzler escaped injury, although his truck and trailer were so badly damaged they had to be towed from the scene. The accident occurred on Highway 101.

Motorist Is Drenched

South San Franciscans can be sure watering is taking place on the construction of Westborough Boulevard extension, near the West Orange Library.

John Young, 39, of 1495 Madera, Pacific, can guarantee it.

Young was driving along the construction site, parallel to a water truck, the windows of his vehicle down because of the hot weather, at about 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Then it happened. The truck's water mechanism was turned on, and Young got drenched. He reported the incident to the police.

End-of-month clearance.

S.S.F. Skills in Reading Improved

Reading skills have improved greatly in the South San Francisco Unified School District, according to a report presented to trustees.

Clifton D. Boyack, assistant superintendent of instruction, said the upward trend has been increasing in the past two years. He said all grade levels are above the national average.

Boyack gave numerous reasons why the reading has improved. These include renewed emphasis on reading, adoption of a new reading guide that allows students to advance beyond their grade level, emphasis on a structured phonics program and changes in grouping of students.

District-wide reading test results are given annually to the board members. This year the trustees were also given a report on results of mathematics testing. Although not as spectacular as reading, the math scores indicated the students were doing well.

Staff Chief Is Elected

George J. Laird, M.D., Burlingame surgeon, has been elected chief-of-staff of Peninsula Hospital and Medical Center it was announced today. Laird succeeds Emanuel Friedman, M.D., San Bruno internist, who has served in the post for two years.

STEVEN LORENZO of San Bruno has been chosen senior boy of the year in Junior Achievement. He won a perpetual plaque for the Bay Area and a silver pin. He was graduated from Crestmoor High School this week and will attend Skyline College.

COUNTY PARK SUPERVISOR Walter Sjosten of Junipero Serra Park in San Bruno has retired to be replaced by Hector Berglund as acting supervisor. Sjosten plans to serve as a consultant and will speak June 21 at Skyline College on camping.

Crestmoor Seniors Honored

Twelve Crestmoor High School seniors have joined the honored ranks of those students named each year to the Society of Outstanding American High School Students, the country's leading high school honor society.

Principal George Kristovich announced their names today. They are: Steven Auclair, Heidi Hills, Geoffrey Dottery, Jesse Weller, Michael Sharkey, Rodney Mrsny, Janet Parker, Margaret Thompson, Darcy Hooper, Christine Homan, Jon Peterson and Kathleen Erbes.

The Society accepts for membership only young men and women who have distinguished themselves as their school's highest achievers. The 12 are now competing for over $262,000 in renewable college scholarships offered by the Society.

The outstanding seniors will have their names published in a volume entitled "Outstanding American High School Students," which is distributed nationally to colleges, universities, corporations and libraries.

"Because of their accomplishments," said the release from the honorary, "these students are most deserving of recognition by the school, the community and the nation."

Lomita Park Principal Is Selected

New principal of Lomita Park School is Anthony DeVille, according to an announcement just made by Superintendent Edward J. Muehlhausen of the Millbrae School District.

DeVill, who has been with the district for nine years, will replace William Hogan, who will become an audio-visual media specialist for the district.

DeVill has taught at both Chadbourne and Taylor schools, part of this time as a French and mathematics teacher, as well as being co-administrator of the district's summer school program. He is currently head of the Foreign language department at Taylor School.

A S.F. State graduate, he also attended U.C. at both Berkeley and Long Beach, in addition to California State College at Hayward.

A Millbrae resident for nine years, he and his wife have two children. He has worked on city council, school board and school bond elections.

FLEA MARKET

The San Francisco Branch, American Fuchsia Society invites gardening enthusiasts to the third annual Fuchsia Gardening Flea Market, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Hall of Flowers, S.F.

12 Cent Tax Boost Possible in Millbrae

A 1971-72 budget which would require a 12 cent increase in the property tax rate, to balance, is being studied by Millbrae City Councilmen.

City Administrator Richard Watson says, however, that he is not recommending any. Watson admits that the city's general fund budget is some $95,000 out of balance, and the total budget, including special funds, shows a $1,000,000 spread between income and expense.

The City Administrator has recommended a general fund budget of $1,412,433, up slightly from last year's $1,352,561.

Sums allotted to special funds, ranging from bond interest redemption to sanitation and water service capital improvements, add up to $2,116,026. Last year's total for these services was $2,212,586.

Watson says the difference between income and out-go, will be made up of several withdrawals from these special funds, for capital improvements required during the coming twelve months.

The city has built up some of these funds for years, and now it must spend them, he said. Specific withdrawals will include allotments to sanitary sewage facilities to meet Bay Area Water Quality Control Board requirements, and improvements in the city's water services.

Watson said another aspect of the budget's imbalance, is the loss of expected sales tax revenue which occurred during the past year when the Chrysler auto agency on Millbrae Avenue went out of business shortly after opening. Another source of sales tax revenue which failed to meet expectations, he said, was the U.S.E. department store on Millbrae Square.

To make up the $95,000 imbalance in the general fund budget, Watson said, he is recommending a transfer of $37,000 in gas tax monies to general street maintenance, and a $41,000 shift in sales tax allotments.

Even with these shifts, there will remain some imbalance in the budget, Watson said, but it will be within the range of the city's normal "unapplied appropriations" reserve fund.

He said it would take an increase of 12.3 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the city's existing tax rate of 74.8 cents, based on expected increases in total assessed valuation for the city.

Without the suggested shifts in funds, he said, such a tax rate might be necessary to balance the budget.

Watson said his recommended budget is 4.4 per cent above last year's, without allowing for salary increases now being reviewed by the Council.

Watson said the city will be able to purchase the snorkel fire truck it has hoped to buy for years, make the final payment on its library construction bonds, make $100,000 worth of improvements on Hillcrest Boulevard, and spend $100,000 on park improvements, if all goes well.

Presidents of 40 chapters in the Bay-Peninsula Regional Council representing San Francisco, the Peninsula and East Bay will attend to discuss programs for the year — including the annual Leadership Conference to be held in August at Asilomar.

Agent Is Honored

Jake Mummert, an agent with State Farm for 25 years, was surprised when district manager Dick McClain, and his wife, Patti, headed a list of nearly 30 guests at the Ranch Inn in Daly City to honor him.

Jake and his wife Salome, residents of Westlake, received the greetings of their two daughters, Mrs. Janice Perera of South San Francisco, and Mrs. Shirley Crane of Sacramento, and other special dinner guests.

Among them: Remos and Nadine Killian, agency director, from the head office in Santa Rosa; Mrs. Martha Tofsey of Santa Rosa, and local agents and wives: John and Dorothy Barnard, Tom and Millie Fowler of San Bruno; Earl and Reva Noxon, Bud and Irene Capurro, Frank and Michi Cosentino, Larry and Marie Rayner — all of the DC-SSF area; Skip and Marge Tenney of Pacifica; Bill and Barbara Bedford of Novato; Bryan and Joy Sandlin of Half Moon Bay.

Tables were set with original silver flower arrangements, centered with foil 25th anniversary motifs, and surrounded with bouffant green netting; the head table centerpiece carried out the anniversary theme, with silver candles, surrounded by silver sprayed eucalyptus branches.

All dinner arrangements were handled by Mrs. McClain.

Suddenly... Summer!

Suddenly, without benefit of spring, summer arrived last week and all those planning the San Mateo County Senior Forum picnic breathed a deep sigh of relief!

The plans are all made, the potato salads chilling and the pies baking for tomorrow's edition of the annual event, according to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, president of the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica, one of the participating organizations.

One of the day's main attractions will be the naming of the county's outstanding man and woman in the over 60 age group. Mrs. Calhan, and the members of the Pacifica contingent will be rooting for Mrs. Ressa Wolf and Clifford Scanlon when the judges announce their decisions.

The picnic is being held in the San Mateo County Fair Grounds and members of the Pacifica group will be making the jaunt over the hills via chartered bus.

Anyone planning to go who hasn't already made arrangements should contact Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg, 355-2184.

MR. AND MRS. LABAN NEATHERY were honored at an anniversary party celebrating their forty-fifth year of marriage this past weekend.

Mrs. Ivyle Lederer opened her South San Francisco home for the reception and buffet for her daughter's in-laws. Co-hosting the party were the Neatherys' children, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Neathery of Walnut Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Don Neathery of Pacifica, Mr. and Mrs. John Sutton of Fremont and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Neathery of Pacifica.

PLANS HAVE ALREADY BEGUN to jell for the annual Presbyterian Hospital Auxiliary's fashion show and luncheon on the calendar for Monday, August 16.

I. Magnin has agreed to co-sponsor the event and 17 of the very latest creations from the store's collection will be modeled during the presentation of "Fashions Around the Clock."

Adele Simpson will do the fashion commentary for the event in the new ballroom of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco.

Mrs. Selmar Munro and Mrs. Hugh Scott Baillie are the co-chairmen of the benefit and localities Mrs. Murray H. Freedman and Mrs. R. L. Ariani will be doing the show's publicity.

Mrs. Freedman returned from a jaunt to Mexico just in time for the fashion show's board meeting, sporting a lovely tan she acquired in Puerto Vallarta and singing the praises of Mexico!

Mrs. Freedman flew to Mexico from Los Angeles via Aeromexico for a short vacation that included swimming, sightseeing and a gala bar-b-que at the Hotel Pasada Vallarta.

SEVERAL NORTH PENINSULA residents were in the Press Club noon time audience last Wednesday to enjoy the wit charm of enduring and endearing Jack Benny.

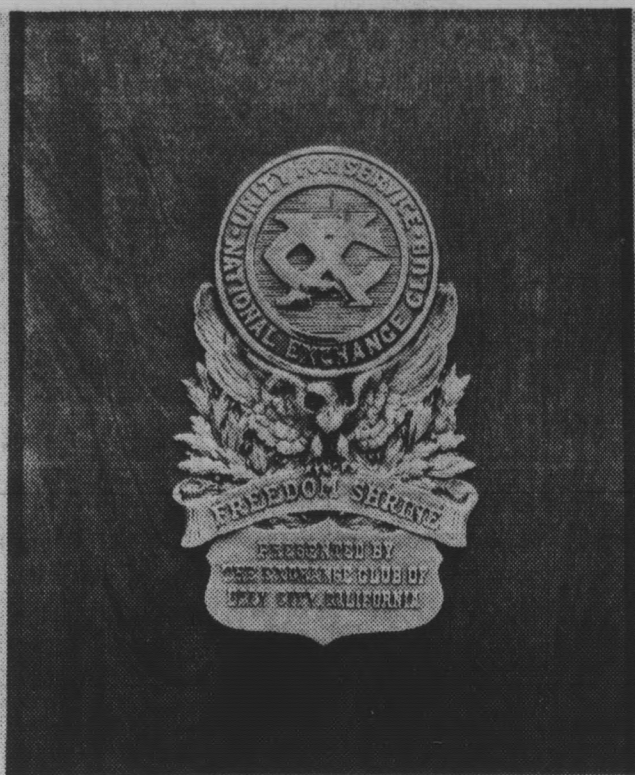

Occupying tables at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Alexander of Pacifica, Jack Lauck of Daly City, Mrs. Ariani and Mrs. Freedman of Millbrae and Westlake, respectively, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McDonnell. Benny was appearing at the Circle Star Theater through this past Sunday.

NOW THAT WE HAVE HAD a touch of summer weather let's hope for more, and when it arrives be prepared to get out and enjoy some of San Francisco's color and excitement.

Almost every young child in the world dreams of catching a fish some day, somewhere and they are terribly eager to try their small hands at the business of angling for dinner.

Next time it's warm take a couple of safety pins and ball of twine and head for Aquatic Park and the municipal pier. Almost anything will do for bait if your children are small enough, and the remains of a baloney sandwich upon a safety pin which dangles from the end of a short piece of

The Shrine is a permanent exhibit of America's most precious historical documents, which are presented primarily to high schools by Exchange Clubs, according to Bell, chairman of the presentation committee and new president of the club. "The documents displayed in the Shrine illustrate 325 years of the struggle to win and preserve freedom in America," Bell said. They date from the Mayflower Compact in 1620 to the World War II instrument of surrender in the Pacific, aboard the USS Missouri. (Post Photos)

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Now that vacation is here and the children are home, there is quite a run on the cookie jar isn't there? Not to mention the fact that the refrigerator door is open so much it's air conditioning the kitchen. I can't think of any way to keep the swinging of the refrigerator door to a minimum, other than placing a padlock on it. But I can offer some recipes for cookies to keep the cookie jar filled.

This first recipe is for a cookie that combines things kids love best, peanut butter and chocolate chips. It is so easy to mix and fix, you might have one of your junior-cooks bake them.

PEANUT CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) margarine
- 1 cup chunky peanut butter
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup white sugar
- 2 eggs
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 package chocolate chips (6 Oz.)
- 1 cup chopped almonds

In large mixing bowl cream the half cup shortening, one stick margarine and one cup peanut butter. Add the one cup each white and brown sugar and cream again. Beat in the two eggs.

Sift together the three cups flour and one teaspoon soda and gradually add to creamed mixture. Mix well. Stir in the one cup almonds and package chocolate chips.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheet and flatten slightly with back of spoon.

Bake in 325-degree oven for 15 minutes. Makes about 7 dozen delicious cookies.

FOR A CONTRAST in flavor and texture from the last recipe, these dainty lemon wafers are a delight. So easy to mix, you can have them ready for the oven in about 10 minutes, and they bake into a pretty round, brown edged cookie.

LEMON WAFERS

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cube butter
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon lemon flavoring

Cream the half cup sugar with the cube butter. Add the two well-beaten eggs and beat until light and fluffy. Blend in the one cup plus two tablespoons sifted flour and mix well. Lastly blend in the teaspoon lemon flavoring.

Drop batter from teaspoon on well greased cookie sheet, using about 3/4 teaspoon butter, keeping cookies about 2-inches apart to allow for spreading. Bake in 350-degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes, until edges are brown and cookie is done in middle. Makes about 3 dozen.

APPLESAUCE-SPICE COOKIES

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 3/4 cup unsweetened applesauce
- 1/2 cup nuts
- 1 cup raisins

Cream the half cup shortening with the one cup sugar. Beat the egg and add to creamed mixture and blend well. Sift together the two and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon cinnamon, fourth teaspoon cloves, half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder and half teaspoon soda. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the three-fourths of a cup of applesauce. Add flour first and last. Fold in the half-cup nuts and one cup of raisins and drop by teaspoon onto well-greased cookie sheet.

Bake 15 minutes in 375-degree oven. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen large cookies.

A Wine for All Seasons

Gastronomy is a treasured pursuit of part-time snobs like myself. I say part-time because I can't afford to indulge myself in all the pleasures that come to my mind on hot summer afternoons.

Yesterday, though, I was a snob, and it was a beautiful experience — I think all the righteous detractors of snobbery are just jealous.

A friend and I have been spending the last several weeks systematically tasting every red wine bottled in California, from red ink up to the best varietals. Yesterday we put the wine in its proper surroundings.

It was Pinot Noir day. The meal was simple — fresh crisp green salad, tender red marinated meat barbecued just so long. We ate slowly. Our first wine was an inexpensive French Burgundy from the Cote de Beaune, just for purposes of comparison.

After dinner we retired to large comfortable chairs, played a recording of Beethoven's Waldstein sonata, and mused about various aspects of the good life (which, to be truthful, we don't enjoy all that often).

We moved along to a nice California Pinot Noir, which was every bit as good as the Burgundy. We were prejudiced, of course, but also realistic. You can't expect to buy a truly fine Burgundy for less than the price of several Pinots.

After the coffee had been ground and filtered, we wondered idly what sort of feast we could spread once we got into white wines.

"Lobster," my friend said. "The king of dishes. The only dish. We need lobster. Fresh. Live. Wiggling."

"Lobster and what else?" I said.

"With lobster, what else do you need?"

We then discussed the subject of boiled crustacean in loving detail, leaving the choosing of the wine and music till last.

"Chablis, of course," said my friend.

"Of course," I said. "A real chablis. Straw-colored. A perfect complement. Don't put too much butter on the lobster."

At that point someone turned on a television set, which sprang to life in the middle of a particularly graphic deodorant commercial, which shattered the fragile mood. Ah, well. The next time.

CHINESE BARBECUE CHINESE PLUM SAUCE

- 1 medium onion, cut in wedges
 - Cooking oil
 - 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 3/4 cup vinegar
 - 3/4 cup sugar
 - 2 pounds plums, quartered
 - Salt
 - Almond extract
- Cook onion in oil until barely limp. Mix cornstarch with vinegar and sugar and add to onion. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add plums and continue cooking until tender. Add salt and almond extract.
- Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

BARBECUED RIBS

Parboil or partially roast 5 pounds spareribs. Brush with Chinese Plum Sauce and grill over medium coals, brushing frequently with sauce. When crisp, cut into servings and pass remaining sauce.

Carpentry Finals for SHS Senior

Behzad Tabrizi, who came to Serramonte High School in Daly City from Persia 1 1/2 years ago, will represent the State of California in the national finals of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America carpentry contest.

Tabrizi won the state contest and another Serramonte student, John Hein placed fourth.

The national finals run from June 26 through July 1 in Indianapolis, Indiana.

"Behzad has a very good chance of winning," said industrial arts teacher Steve Scheppeler.

When Behzad first came to America, Scheppeler said, he spoke less than 200 words of English, but now he is considered to be in the top five percent of the Serramonte student body and a "straight A" student.

Behzad's first woodshop class began in September, 1970. With Serramonte's modular scheduling he could easily pursue his interests. He now has five required subjects, plus four woodshop classes.

Behzad spends an average of 40 hours in the shop weekly.

"During the Regional Competition Behzad was competing against high school seniors who have attended so-called 'vocational high schools' for eight periods a day for four years."

"Behzad won this contest with flying colors after only six months experience in a workshop," Scheppeler said.

Behzad will attend the University of San Francisco next term.

An Indian Guide Camp-out

Nearly 400 fathers and sons participated in the annual Y Indian Guide encampment at Jones Gulch, near La Honda.

The boys and dads, in full Indian regalia, came together from Pacifica, South San Francisco, San Bruno and Millbrae.

The annual event provided dads from this area a final chance in the year-long program to practice dad-lad togetherness. A rule in the organization which makes it unique is that all activities are carried on jointly by father and son. Children may join as young as five years of age, and many continue on until they are 11 or even older.

Climax to the two-day round of activities came with an induction ceremony, at which 240 fathers and sons, members of newly organized tribes, were inducted at the Indian Guide Bowl, around a giant campfire.

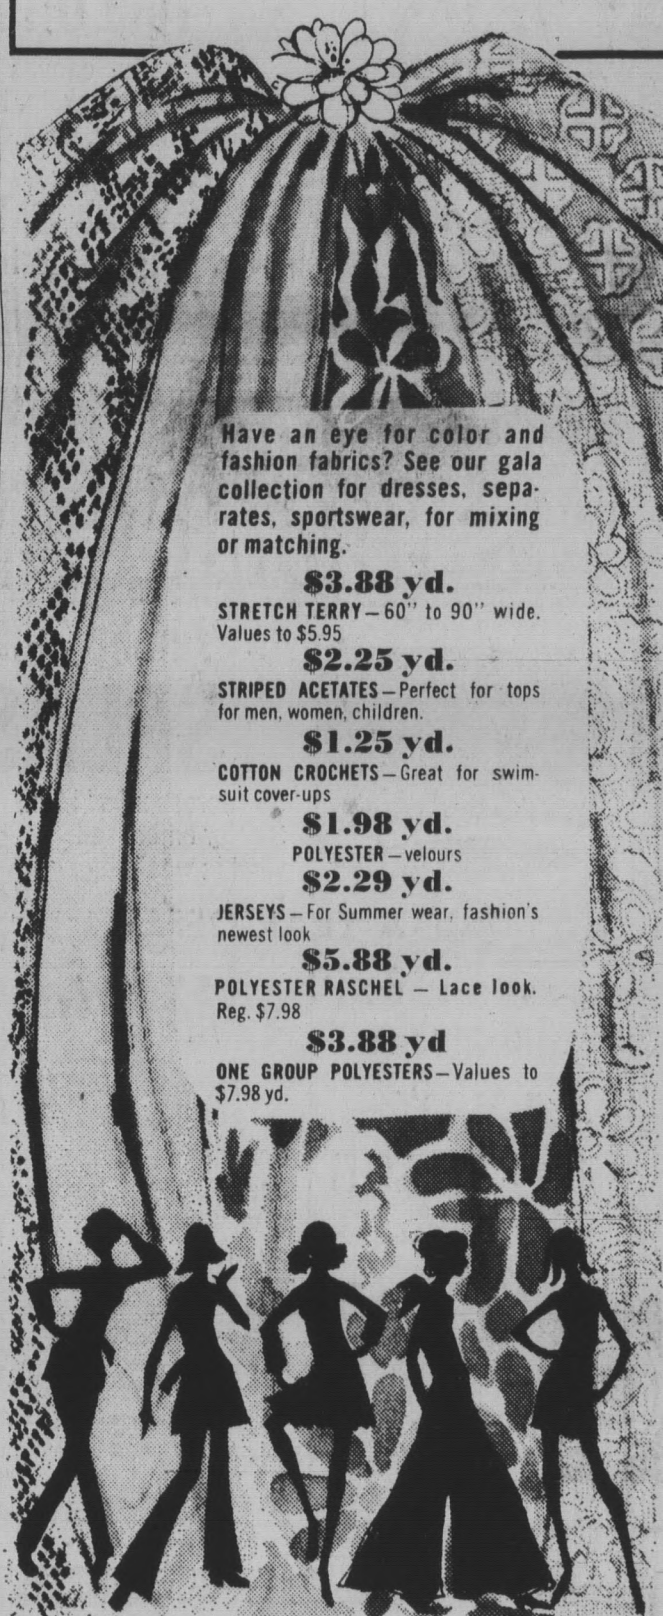

Special games were held under direction of the Cherokee tribe of Millbrae. Awards were given to various tribes for best costume, best tribal craft and best skit, performed during the campfire.

circle preceding the Induction Ceremony.

Among the outstanding crafts, representing work taking place all year long, was a 20-foot suspension bridge, built entirely of tree branches and rope, by the Yuma Tribe of Fairmont in Pacifica.

The campout was held by the Okaga Longhouse, headed by Chief Bob Elliot of South San Francisco, aided by chiefs of the three participating nations, Roy Stefani, Buffalo; Frank Eddy, Fox, and Tony Vernal, Pony.

Millbrae Young People Feted By the Police

One girl and nine boys were recently awarded trophies by the Millbrae Police Department for work as traffic patrol directors.

Nearly 400 students participated in this duty during the current school year. They were honored at the 15th annual barbecue and special movie matinee by the police department, the Lions and Optimists clubs of Millbrae.

The girl who was awarded a trophy is Christine Brady, a sixth grader at Glen Oaks School. Christine does special duty with the kindergartners at her school, lining them up and starting them off to their homes after school.

The perpetual trophy for the Outstanding School of the Year was awarded to Taylor Intermediate School, and given to Charles Schifferling.

Traffic Officer William Urbanski, who works with the students on traffic duty, organized the program for the day.

From Chadbourne School, the award was presented to Edward Wolbert; from Green Hills, to Steve Gomes; from Highlands, Randy Bass; from Limita Park, Eugene Maffei; from Meadows, Andre Sartor; from Millbrae, Steven Lum; from Spring Valley, Bruce Kavich, and from St. Dunstan's, Bobby Sverak.

Miss Pardini Is Married in San Mateo

St. Matthew's Catholic Church in San Mateo was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Pamela S. Pardini and Jeffrey P. Krug. A reception at the Green Hills Country Club followed the 1 o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pardini of San Bruno and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard T. Krug of San Mateo are the bridegroom's parents.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Pamela wore a long white peau de soie gown accented with daisy appliques. Matching appliques highlighted her elbow length veil. A train completed the silhouette.

After greeting guests, the newlyweds left for a wedding tour of Canada. They will live in San Bruno.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Krug are both graduates of the College of San Mateo. Pamela also studied at Crestmoor High School and San Francisco State College. Jeffrey prepped at Bellarmine and has served with the U.S. Army. He also is the brother of James, Kathleen, Gretchen, Eileen and Susan Krug.

Miss Bahrt Is Married at Church

The First United Presbyterian Church in San Francisco was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Linda Marie Bahrt and Kristian J. Valstad.

The Rev. Paul McFarland conducted the four o'clock ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Bahrt of Daly City and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kristian Valstad of San Francisco. A reception followed at the Red Chimney Restaurant in San Francisco.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was graduated from Abraham Lincoln High School. She is the sister of Fred R. Bahrt Jr. and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Stover and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jones.

Kristian is the brother of David and Leslie Valstad. He is an alumnus of Mission High School.

After honeymooning in Vancouver, the newlyweds will establish a residence in Daly City.

Quiz Time Again...

And now for our semi-annual Baseball Quiz for Genuine Experts. If you get one completely correct, you have promise.

1. What modern Hall of Famer played professional football?
2. What position has the fewest representatives in the Hall of Fame?
3. Name the eight active players with .300 or better lifetime batting averages — and who have played at least 750 games.
4. What current relief pitcher stands seventh among active pitchers in lifetime wins?
5. Jackie Robinson was the first Negro to play big league baseball. True or false?
6. Who was Tony Lazzari's late-inning defensive replacement at second base on the great Yankee team of the late '20's?
7. Within 10, can you say how many bases Babe Ruth stole during his career?

We usually keep you in suspense by putting the answers to our quizzes at the bottom of the column. But because this is such an exciting quiz, we'll make an exception. Following are the answers:

1. Jackie Robinson, who played for the Los Angeles Bulldogs in 1941. This was a tricky one, which is why we had to phrase the question so that it read, "modern" Hall of Famer. As we mentioned in a column last football season, Giant great Christy Mathewson played fullback for the Pittsburgh Pros in 1902. Christy was considered the finest punter of his day. And when Connie Mack sponsored a professional football team called the Philadelphia Athletics, his screwball southpaw, Rube Wadell, did some promotional work for the club. One time, in 1902, Rube did suit up. He was, therefore, on a professional football team. But as far as anybody knows, he never got in the game.

2. Third base, which lists only four full-time hot corner men; and one of those, John McGraw, was named more for his managerial than his playing talents, although he did compile a .334 lifetime batting average in a career which went from 1891-1906, eight of the last nine years in which he managed more than played. The other three are Jimmy Collins (1945), Pie Traynor (1948), Homerun Baker (1955). What do you want to bet that Brooks Robinson is next?

3. Roberto Clemente (.316), Henry Aaron (.313), Tony Oliva (.311), Pete Rose (.309), Matty Alou (.309), Willie Mays (.306), Frank Robinson (.303), Al Kaline (.301), Orlando Cepeda just misses (.299), and so does, surprise, Manny Mota (.298).

4. This is the one you should have gotten so as to show promise. Hoyt Wilhelm is the man. Going into this season he had won 143 games, almost all of them in relief.

5. False. He was the first to play so-called modern day big league baseball, the first to play after the legendary Hall of Famer and Super-Bigot Cap Anson virtually ran the Negro out of the majors in the 19th century. As far as we've been able to research a Negro infielder named Bud Fowler (born, ironically, in Cooperstown, New York), played in 1872 for an all-white team at New Castle, Pa. In 1884 two brothers, Welday and Moses Walker, played for Toledo of the American Association, a recognized major league at that time. Then came the backlash of the Civil War's ill-fated Reconstruction Era to inspire Anson to refuse to allow his Chicago White Sox to play an exhibition game in 1884 against a Newark, New Jersey minor league team because a Negro, George Stovey, was scheduled to hurl against the White Sox. Anson got his way. The Newark management removed Stovey from the lineup, and as far as recorded history is concerned, no major leaguer since 1884 played against a Negro until Jackie Robinson. Anson, whose other distinction is that he was the first major leaguer to collect 3,000 hits, actually crusaded against the Negro being allowed in the majors, and was largely responsible for the whispered unwritten law that Negroes weren't to be allowed in the big leagues.

6. Leo Durocher, who also played a lot of shortstop for the Yankees in 1929.

7. The answer is 117, and we'll bet you missed it. Like everything else, Ruth could also run the bases well. He was fast and had good instincts. Had he not been such a valuable property to risk a lot of slides (risky not only because he could hit, but also, when he was pitching, because he could pitch), and had the Yankees not been such a hitting oriented team, there is no doubt that Ruth could have stolen perhaps 225-300 bases, and probably more. A helluva ballplayer.

NOW THAT WE'VE made you feel foolish, on to simpler matters: Like, what does Cotton Nash have to do to make the majors? Cotton Nash, you may remember, once played basketball for the Warriors and Lakers ('64-65) and with Kentucky in the ABA as late as '67-68 after an All American college career with Kentucky. In between, and since, Nash has tried to make it as a professional first baseman, and as a minor leaguer he has been great.

For instance, last year he hit 33 homers in the American Association. This year he's tearing up the Pacific Coast League for Portland, an affiliate of the Twins. Every year he's at or near the top in homers and RBI's in whatever league he happens to be in, and at 6-6, 220, he makes an imposing target at the initial sack.

Nash, now 28, has never been given a good shot, not even in spring training, and looking at the Twins' standings this year, he must be wondering what he has to do to draw somebody's attention.

He must also be wondering what it would have been like had he stuck with pro basketball long enough to get into the huge salary bracket, and to play in the major league in his peak years — in the basketball majors leagues, that is.

SUDDEN THOUGHTS: Been trying to figure out why baseball players nowadays seem to be so much faster afoot, as a class, then, say, 10-20 years and more ago. It could be that PR men in those days — what there was of them — weren't so stop-watch oriented. But another reason might be the lighter uniforms and equipment.

We can remember baseball uniforms when they were made of heavy materials, had sleeves down to the elbow, enough bag in the pants and around the waist to fit a couple of midgets in the uniform with you, when the outside stockings were heavy wool, cut low, and spikes were generally made of heavy, tough, hard-bending cow hide. And everybody wore sliding pads. On hot days, you felt like a swimmer who had dove into the pool with his overcoat on, the uniform picked up and retained so much body moisture.

But nowadays the uniforms are made of lightweight materials, many of them have no sleeves at all, and they are form fitting, all the bag having been taken out of them. The outside stockings are also of light, usually synthetic material, cut high, and the spikes are lightweight, generally of kangaroo skin, and supple. And nobody wears sliding pads.

All of that added weight in the old days, especially in late innings on hot days, just had to cut a tenth or two off a player's time getting from home to first, second to home, chasing a fly into the corner, etc.

We know of only one basic disadvantage of one of the modern uniforms. The new Pittsburgh uniforms are made without buttons or zippers. Now, that's OK on the pull-over jersey, but . . . well, never mind. Those PR men keep telling us that all the modern-day players are better all-around than the old-timers.

(Note: The same may be said for added speed in basketball, football and track. In football, pants and jerseys are lighter, shoes are lighter and low-cut, socks have been abandoned, padding is lighter because plastic doesn't absorb body moisture as leather did. Basketball uniforms are also lighter.) (Please See Page 17, Col. 2)

Bommarito Tops Nor-Cal Team

Much to the surprise of no one, Chuck Bommarito of Crestmoor High School has been named Athlete of the Year on the All Northern California Track and Field team for 1971.

Bommarito, the California prep 220 champion who also placed second in the State Meet 100-yard dash, won his latest honors today from the Northern California Track and Field Association.

Main criteria for selection to the team were state meet performance, section meet performance and seasonal best mark, and in all three categories, Bommarito was the class of his peers.

The 6-1, 180-pound Falcon won both sprints in the Central Coast Section meet, running to a 9.8 mark in the 100 before he came back with a 21.6 victory in the 220.

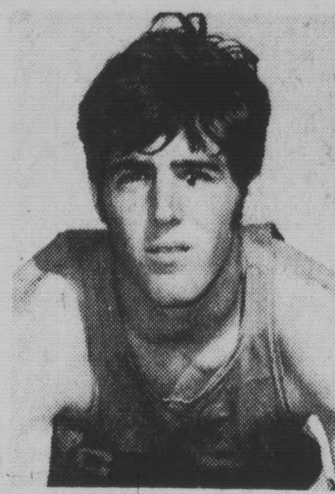

The following week at UCLA, Bommarito twice finished second in the 100 before he won the 220 with an awesome stretch run in the wind-aided time of 21.2. Bommarito thus scored 10 points single-handedly to give Crestmoor a tie for third place in the team scoring, the best individual performance ever by a San Mateo County Athlete.

The shorter sprint was contested two times when meet officials decided that Hamilton's George Reddick had jumped the gun in the first race, which the recall starter permitted to finish. The decision, in light of Reddick's charged false start in the second 100, produced the biggest controversy in the 53-year-history of the State Meet. It was forgotten, however, after a film review ultimately awarded the team title to Lompoc High School's one-man team of Charles Jackson.

Bommarito was the only San Mateo County athlete named to the All Nor-Cal team, which includes athletes from five different Sections.

Chuck has signed a letter of intent for the University of California next season, where he may prove to be the biggest recruiting coup Coach Dave Maggard will score this year.

DiMaggio League Showdown Is Set

Showdown time in the Peninsula Joe DiMaggio League has finally arrived with the two unbeaten, Millbrae Police and Davis Enterprises of San Mateo, meeting Wednesday, 6 p.m. on the Mills High School diamond.

Both teams are 5-0 in the PDDL.

Meanwhile, the timely bat of Jim Rosenthal and the lively arm of Joe Serena preserved San Mateo's unbeaten status at Fitzgerald Field Sunday.

Rosenthal drove in five runs as Davis defeated Belmont, 6-3. He started things off in the first inning by hitting a prodigious three-run wallop over the right field barrier which landed in the middle of the El Camino Real some 410 feet away.

lighter, and socks are gone. Same for track uniforms, and lighter shoes, etc.)

After reading these fabulous reports of basketball players like Rick Barry and Jerry Lucas hitting golf balls in excess of 350 yards, we are more convinced than ever that extra-long driving in golf is strictly show biz, and has relatively little direct bearing on winning golf. Except for unusual holes, a golf ball need be shot only so far to be effective.

In certain cases, it's possible for a ball to be hit too far. This is not to say that being able to get off a strong drive isn't important to one's golf game. But as far as we're concerned, the big boomers are like the homerun hitter who hits a ball 450 feet over a 370 foot fence. It's a good show, but he doesn't win a game any more effectively than a teammate who hits one 375 feet over the 370 foot fence.

Accident Kills Pacifican, 20

A 20-year-old Pacifican man was killed Saturday morning when his car plunged 120 feet down into a creek.

He lost control on an unfamiliar, winding two-lane road near Knoxville, 10 miles north of Lake Berryessa, the CHP said.

The victim was Stephen Michael Bastien of 1027 N. Rosita Ct., Pacifica.

The accident happened at about 7 a.m. but it was not until 11 a.m. Sunday that his passenger, Gerald Allen Berg, 22, 1139 Hernandez, Pacifica, his leg fractured, was able to drag himself up the embankment and get help.

Legal publication of the statement is required if there has been any change in information required in the statement previously filed.

The County Clerk urges all firms effected to comply as soon as possible to avoid the rush of the June 30, 5 p.m. deadline.

Forms required by the new law and written material concerning the new procedure may be obtained at the county clerk's office at the courthouse in South San Francisco.

A 51-year-old San Bruno man was found dead in the garage of his home early Friday.

Police said Lee Dewey Barket, 51, of 170 Yorkshire Court, apparently hung himself from the rafters with a rope. According to police, he had been despondent. He left a note saying he was sorry and loved his wife.

Barket was found by his son, who rushed his father to Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame, where he was pronounced dead on arrival at 1:14 a.m. today.

16th Fire on Bruno Mount.

A division spokesman said it was the 16th fire on San Bruno Mountain this season.

The location was off of Randolph Avenue near the 4-H Club.

Filing of Fictitious Name Forms Required by July 1

All businesses operating under a fictitious name for profit are required, by new state law, to refile their Fictitious Business Name Statement by July 1, according to Marvin Church, county clerk-recorder.

A fictitious name is one that does not include the surname of the operator or one that implies the existence of other owners; or, if a corporation, if it includes a name other than the name given in the articles of incorporation.

The filing fee is $10.

Church pointed out that while the new law does not become effective until July 1, businesses may refile at any time up through June 30, without republishing if there is no change in the status of the business.

Legal publication of the statement is required if there has been any change in information required in the statement previously filed.

The County Clerk urges all firms effected to comply as soon as possible to avoid the rush of the June 30, 5 p.m. deadline.

Forms required by the new law and written material concerning the new procedure may be obtained at the county clerk's office at the courthouse in South San Francisco.

Frank LaPierre

Post-Times Writer

HELLO AGAIN. Glad to hear both my readers missed this column last week. We were, as it was pointed out by the editor, on a special assignment with The Shadow. It was a grave subject we found ourselves entangled in. More on that later.

MEANWHILE, it has come to our attention that Colma Mayor Raymond D. Ottoboni Sr. is (or was) circulating a petition among some registered voters in that city asking his son, Raymond Jr., be appointed police chief. We've heard this news from several sources, but have yet to see this rather unusual petition first-hand.

Frankly, we don't know what to think when a mayor or high-ranking official of ANY city supports a petition to gain an appointment for a relative.

In no way are we inferring the younger Ottoboni — now Colma's assistant police chief since the death of Chief Dino Lagomarsino — is incapable or unqualified for the chief's post. But why the big push?

THERE HAVE BEEN other appointments in Colma that also have been criticized publicly. The appointment of Glen E. Duncan, whose wife is a niece of Mayor Ottoboni, has come under increasing criticism from the public. Councilman Duncan replaced Raymond Ottoboni Jr. on the council, when the latter was appointed by his father and other members of the council to the police department as Lagomarsino's aide.

WHETHER A CLEAR-CUT case of nepotism has been evidenced in Colma by Ottoboni Sr. remains to be judged — and this writer is no judge. Webster defines "nepotism" as, "... Favoritism shown to relatives, especially in appointments to desirable positions.

One thing is certain; Colma is no longer a sleepy little cemetery town. The influx of commercial enterprise has begun to shake it awake. On its flanks South San Francisco and Daly City are growing at a startling rate.

Both these cities are exercising thinking that coincides with the 1970's. Will Lawndale — or rather Colma — follow suit??

THE SHADOW KNOWS (or thinks he knows) about that Assemblyman Leo Ryan-Senator Vance Hartke huddle at Cyril Magnin's penthouse apartment in San Francisco last week. Topic of conversation centered around the New York Times' current series on that "secret" Defense Department paper.

RYAN POSSIBLY WAS also asking about throwing his hat into the congressional race, if and when that new district is created in San Mateo County. If Ryan runs for the new seat it will have a "domino effect" on local politics, with some very interesting down home candidates vying for Ryan's then vacated Assembly district post.

THE ENTIRE POLITICAL structure of the North County will change between now and next April. You can bet Bill Schumacher will run for the Daly City Council against ...? But let's wait, and I'll tell you more later.

IT WAS NICE of County Assessor Jack Estes to pay the North County a visit and explain to the common folks what the duties of his office are. Few people attended, which shows most property owners are sick and tired of listening to the same old story of "How I hated to do it, but ..."

Those who did attend the meeting in Daly City got few answers to questions on why their particular assessments were raised. They were told, however, where and how to appeal the assessments.

The rich are grumbling over the higher figures, the middleclass once again feel the biggest bite, and the poor (who can least afford it) are forced once again to give up some luxury — like eating!

THE WESTLAKE ESTATES assessments, which reached dizzying heights two weeks ago, have been lowered considerably.

SICK CALL —Daly City City Planner John Walker resting after ear surgery.

JUST GOT THE LATEST brochure on development of San Bruno Mountain, dated June 1971. Lots of emphasis on recreation and open space. Very little on housing and commercial. And to top it off an aerial photo of the mountain included in the booklet must be at least EIGHT YEARS OLD — it doesn't even have Guadalupe Canyon Parkway on it.

SOUTH CITY RESIDENTS are bitterly complaining about being kicked up by Contractor Buzz Haskins, the man who can move Heaven and Earth (wouldja believe just earth?). Seems Haskins' trucks are moving the earth without any great difficulty, but are losing the dust battle. One irate citizen dryly commented, "I can spit more water than some of these trucks drop in a day."

AND SO D.C. MAYOR Bud Lycett decided to grab a bite to eat along with nine other people at Lyons Restaurant off Alemany following a hard-working city council meet the other night. The ten customers were seated around a table made ready by the manager and the waitress was dispatched to take the order. While she was placing silverware and napkins the good mayor politely placed his order.

He was informed by the waitress, "I only have two hands." After being the target of bitter comments all through a council meet, Lycett had to take some more.

But of course he DOES get paid about $50 a meeting, so he should take the heat, right? Wrong! In the council hall, yes; on his own time, no.

JUST GOT A press release from the College of San Mateo. It came special delivery complete with 68 cents postage paid. That's a lot of postage for a PR release. If the matter is THAT important and timely, a ten-cent phone call would suffice. This is dispensing the people's money wisely?

AH, TOGETHERNESS — Bob Maxey, superintendent of Parks and Recreation in "The Industrial City," recently received his master's degree in recreation from S.F. State. Same ceremony, same time, his pretty wife got her master's degree in elementary education.

HEELS ARE MORE expensive than souls? A $75,000 suit filed against South City alleges a swimmer fractured his heel while plunging off a defective diving board at Orange Memorial Pool. This writer wonders what a "soul" injured in a "dive" would be able to sue for?

'A Wandering Boy—Sick and Lost...'

By SAMUEL CHANDLER
Daly City Librarian

Picture a boy wandering tired and sick and lost in a snowstorm in the high mountain country of Wyoming. Suddenly a horse, an old mare with memories of ropes and riders, appears out of nowhere — it would seem.

"Morena" is the story of how the boy and the horse saved each other. It is a tale of how the instinct got survival in both brought them together and forged a tender and beautiful companionship. Carefully, author Peter Z. Cohen draws the picture of the boy pitting his cunning against the horse's hatred for human beings.

With barbed wire from an old fence, Alex pens the horse in an aspen grove until she cannot move and then, "In that moment Alex strode alongside her, grabbed her mane with one hand, and the wire's gatepost with the other."

"Whoa now," he ordered.

"Morena felt the man's grip on her mane. She was used to giving into such a grip. She heard the confidence in his voice. It promised relief from the frightening pains around her neck."

So the story proceeds to become one that has been named a junior Literary Guild selection as an outstanding book for boys and girls.

"Morena" represents a high degree of excellence found in many new stories for young people.

Among them is "Marv," by Marilyn Sachs. Poor Marv. His teachers consider him hopelessly stupid, while his brilliant older sister taunts him.

"Everything you do is useless, an ugly mess," she screams, "Can't you make something that will benefit somebody?"

Poor Marv, part dreamer, part nuisance, part fool, tries over and over again always failing until people learn the value of his creations — the things he built — swimming pools from old pipes and pieces of tin, gardens in patches of land behind revolving doors, birds' baths that revolve — to keep the cats off, weather vanes and racket tools.

Personal View on How News Can Be Distorted

Is news biased? This question has long plagued officialdom, the media and the general public. America is currently engrossed in serious examination of news reporting, and the debate in the past few years has escalated seriously. I have watched this dialogue as a somewhat appalled observer, and have been torn between a concern about officialdom slaying the harbinger of bad news, and the possibility that some news is really misreported.

The entire subject of news reporting will never really be resolved. Bad news does travel more rapidly. Tragedy and dispute are news, while happiness and agreement are not, and the objects of bad news reports have a compulsion to criticize not only the substance of the news but also the medium. Nonetheless, there remains the possibility that the factual material supplied to the public carries an overly heavy burden of editorialism.

The other evening, I participated in an event that later attracted wide attention. I served as Chairman of a Republican dinner in San Mateo County and, as such, had opportunity to be there when one of these recurring media problems arose.

When I arrived for the dinner, the head table was beginning to form, and many of us exchanged greetings and reminiscences. I can distinctly recall that dinner had already been served, and that I was doing everything possible to get the head table to move along so our waiting guests could eat. During this time, National Chairman Robert Dole, the present State Chairman, Put Livermore, and Congressman Paul (Pete) McCloskey were having a very friendly discussion immediately behind the podium. I was in the discussion so I remember it. Pete was telling all of us that he had to leave to go back to Washington on a plane that was due to leave before the dinner was over, and certainly before the speech could be made. Senator Dole understood this, Put Livermore understood, and so did I. They were still talking in a most friendly way when I had to turn away and open the meeting.

We were running late, and I knew that Congressman McCloskey had to leave, so assured him we would get the basic introductions completed before he actually had to depart. This was done just in the nick of time, and when I introduced Pete, informed the audience, including all members of press present and listening, that Congressman McCloskey had to leave and explained his necessity of catching a plane.

As expected and agreed, and with the full friendly understanding of Senator Dole, Pete left immediately following the introductions. Following that, Senator Dole gave a good fighting, Republican speech of just the kind a National Chairman should give, and of the kind I understand he has given at innumerable places throughout the country.

Later I heard the first news breaks about the dinner and read the accounts which appeared in the press. This didn't seem like our dinner at all. Angry Republicans had met, an elected official had walked out, and Senator Dole had unfairly, in some way, attacked the Congressman.

Let's consider the major points. I suppose that the normal movement of humans by feet is walking, and if you define the inside of the room as "in" and the outside as "out," you could use the words "walked out." But "walked out" connotes something else. Those words, to the ordinary reader or listener, mean someone left in a huff in response to some insult or rebuff. Not the case. Congressman McCloskey left.

Now, let's turn to Senator Dole's speech. What subjects are open to a National Chairman to use to address a highly partisan Republican audience? He could, of course, ask for money, but the people present had already paid money, and were interested in other things. He could talk about the President's domestic programs, but this wasn't just the season for that, and selling such things as revenue sharing to strong partisan Republican audiences is not all that easy. So the Senator really had three options?

1. He could talk about the President and support his programs generally.
2. He could attack Democrats and their positions on issues, or
3. He could talk about Party unity.

But imagine the uproar in the press if the Senator had dared to talk about Party unity in San Mateo County at this turn of the clock. So Senator Dole gave an excellent speech without referring to dissident or differing Republicans, and in which he attacked Democrats. He did it well, and talked against not only one of their potential candidates, but all of them. He said that he found it astounding that these candidates uniformly opposed the President's way of getting out of Vietnam when their Party got us there in the first place. Great and partisan stuff. But to read the news, one would feel that the Senator, who went away out of his way to comment in a friendly manner toward Congressman McCloskey at the beginning of his speech, was attacking him.

Such reporting forms an intellectual prison. It means that if the National Chairman of Republicans wants to attack Democrats in San Mateo County that he is, for some reason, a bad guy because he attacks partisan opponents in a speech. The media are justifiably concerned about censorship, but in this case, functioned as an informal censor of Senator Dole. Speak out if you dare, it said, but if you do, our headline writers will use some caption such as "McCloskey walks out on war talk."

While I remain devoted to the necessity of a free press and still believe that much of the blather against the media is foolish, I must admit that in at least one instance, it behaved badly. This time, I didn't need to evaluate the arguments of others, I was there.

GI Heroin Addicts Target of Mayors

The San Mateo County Council of Mayors Friday determined to prod the County Medical Society, Bar Association and County Comprehensive Health Planning Council to do something about heroin addiction among returning Vietnam veterans.

It will write a letter, expressing its concern and urging that some form of treatment, possibly methadone, be set up for heroin addicts, it decided by unanimous vote. Nearly all of the county's nineteen municipalities were represented.

The Council acted after a presentation by Dr. S. J. Guardino, who told them "I felt my letter to the County Supervisors went into the wastebasket."

The letter urged action to develop a methadone program.

A companion letter to the president of the County Medical Society also was "overlooked," the physician said.

"There is the possibility the medical profession" is more interested in money," he continued. "There's no money in it (methadone) for doctors. The halo is big but the welfare is not."

Dr. Guardino said that he had been upset when many who came to him for help as a doctor were from well-to-do families, and told him that many of their friends are also heroin addicts.

"If we are interested in humanitarianism, we have to remember that when these young people come to me, I can't give them help. The only way is to go to jail, or Napa or to Agnew."

He pointed out that President Nixon "has tried to institute a methadone program nationally. Methadone is addictive," Dr. Guardino admitted, but it allows taking it orally, only one or two times a day, and allows people to work. Heroin addicts are forced to take injections as many as six times a day.

San Bruno Mayor Maurice Hamilton strongly supported the physician, saying that he shares his feeling that methadone is the only effective program and should be used "until something better comes along."

In other action, the Council of Mayors named a five-man committee to nominate seven community leaders and police chiefs to a Criminal Justice Planning Board for the county, a panel which would determine priorities and assist in a clearing house for federal and state grant applications.

The council acted after it was named by the California Council of Criminal Justice as the body to do so. The planning board is to consist of three elected representatives (councilmen or mayors), two city police chiefs and two city managers, presumably each from different cities.

It was indicated the larger cities would definitely be represented, and that no city would have more than one person on the board.

Letters to The Post's Editor

Editor, The Post:

There is a display of history textbooks in the Public Libraries California that should be of concern to parents who have children in grade school (5th-8th). These books must be available for public inspection for 60 days in at least 50 libraries throughout the state.

These prospective textbooks should be examined and comments about them should be sent to Sacramento.

Check your local library or call your school administration for the list of libraries in which these textbooks are available for examination.

WHS Human Relations Conference

Westmoor High School students want to hold a human relations youth conference in the Jefferson Union High School District.

Doris Lindfors, a counselor at the Daly City school, said funds are needed from the district's planning council to develop the conference and also to initiate a community forum to better human relations.

Mrs. Lindfors said a petition from students, faculty, administrators and community members of the Sequoia district in southern San Mateo County have asked for continuance of human relations youth conferences.

The reference was to the April 23-30-May 1 conference held at Sequoia and Jefferson schools.

A three-day conference in the fall, has been planned with different locations.

"In order to spread the word," Mrs. Lindfors said, some new participants were suggested.

The Jefferson High School District planning council, from which Westmoor seeks the funding, is nearly two years old and scheduled for termination in the fall.

Its members have urged that trustees continue the council.

Merritt Adelman, a mathematics instructor at Pacifica's Oceana High School, chairman of the District Planning Council, recently pointed to the human relations youth conference as one of the council's achievements.

The council also completed district-approved papers on philosophy and goals and Senate Bill 1, and its sponsored and financed workshops and educational visits.

The council also held a bilingual-bicultural workshop for faculty members, and a workshop on the planning process is being organized.

Julie Monares chaired the council's bilingual-bicultural subcommittee.

"We have just begun to foster better understanding not only among student peers, but also within the ranks of faculty and administration," she said in a recent report.

Several needs should be met to improve the situation, she said. These include:

A community counselor in every school, more bi-lingual counselors, a curriculum meeting the needs of mono-lingual Spanish speaking students, and the need for bi-lingual-bi-cultural personnel in the health and welfare fields.

Mrs. Monares also said that the committee had at least a dozen concerns, including:

What percentage of college oriented are Latinos? What percentage of Latinos are included in the gifted program? What percentage of Latinos are involved and/or counseled into the vocational program? What percentage of Latinos know about available scholarships? What percentage of Latinos receive scholarships?

Two Quit HRC Group

Resignation of two more members of the County Human Relations Commission has been announced.

They are David J. Friedenberg, a South San Francisco attorney, and Doris Dean of Redwood City.

The resignations leave only six of the 15 original members of the commission appointed by the County Board of Supervisors in 1968.

Friedenberg said he is quitting because of the press of other commitments. Executive Director James Forrest said Miss Dean decided that she would not seek re-appointment when her term expires at the end of this month.

Remaining from the original group of appointees are the Rev. Charles Arnold of Pacifica, Mrs. Phyllis Blum of Portola Valley, Stuart Leeb of Portola Valley, Mrs. Lillian Meadows of East Palo Alto, Jose Fuentes of San Bruno, and Frank Spadarella of Daly City.

Gunman at D.C. Market

The Mayfair Market at 6967 Mission Street, Daly City, was robbed on Saturday by a gunman wearing a cast on his left arm.

Police said the suspect concealed a gun in a sling he used to support his injured arm. He fled on foot after grabbing $75 from a checkout stand attendant shortly after midnight.

Northern Kiwanians Set for Convention

Northern Area Kiwanians this weekend will be helping to host some 18,000 Kiwanians and their families coming to San Francisco from every major country for their world convention, opening this Sunday at the Civic Auditorium.

Kiwanians coming will include men who are notables in civic and business fields. They will be among the thousands of convention delegates who, upon arriving at the bustling San Francisco International Airport, will find men and women at information desks ready to give them directions, help them get a hotel room, tell them what's worth sight-seeing, and otherwise ready to give them a hospitable welcome. Every hotel on the Peninsula, as well as San Francisco, is expected to be filled with Kiwanians.

Manning these information desks will be members, and their wives, of the San Bruno-Millbrae Kiwanis Club and the South San Francisco Kiwanis Club. They will even have special word-books to help them in case the visiting Kiwanian cannot speak English. Among them, local Kiwanians command a number of foreign languages.

Local Kiwanians will also be taking a major part in the convention activities. Every member of the two local clubs and their wives are signed up as delegates. Lieutenant Governor of the host district, Dist. 17, is Dr. Carlos Montanana, past-president of the local club.

Fire Captain Burned in Explosion

A South San Francisco fire captain was in Kaiser Hospital, San Francisco, today for treatment of second and third degree burns over nearly 75 per cent of his body.

Howard McFarland, 34, a South San Francisco fireman since 1961, was burned Sunday when a butane tank exploded aboard a houseboat at Don Pedro Lake near Sonoma, South San Francisco, assistant fire chief Al Brauns said today.

He is in the hospital's intensive care unit.

McFarland was barbecuing aboard the craft, according to information Brauns said he received Monday.

Haskins Hearing Continued to Next Monday

The arraignment of adult bookstore co-owner Arnold Haskins on charges of selling obscene material was continued until 2 p.m. next Monday in the Northern Judicial District Court at South San Francisco.

San Bruno police arrested the San Mateo Avenue businessman last week.

Haskins and Glen Bumgardner of Burlingame are co-proprietors of the store, which was reportedly closed Monday.

San Bruno Attorney John Bible is not representing Haskins. Haskins' partner Glenn Bumgardner, 35, of Burlingame, at the time of Haskins' arrest said he had talked to Bible and was confident Bible would be the attorney.

Bible, however, denied that Bumgardner has ever talked with him. Bumgardner now says the book publishers will supply an attorney to handle the case.

Broadmoor July 4 Parade

The Broadmoor Property Owners' Association again will sponsor its annual Fourth of July celebration.

The theme will be Good Old Summertime.

Starting the day's activities will be a cake bake contest, and residents are urged to bake their specialty or the family's favorite to take to the Broadmoor Community Center.

Entries will be accepted at 9 Saturday morning. Judging will begin at 10.

Ribbons will be awarded to the best entries.

A carnival will begin at 10:30 a.m. There will be booths, games, prizes and refreshments.

The parade will begin at 2 p.m. The parade route will cover 87th Street, from Larchmont to Washington, and Washington to Bryant Streets. There will be floats, bands, horses, and marching units.

The Broadmoor Cub Scout

Pack 259 will march in full uniform.

All youngsters may enter the parade — decorating their bicycle, wagons or themselves.

Presiding over the entire celebration will be one Kim Emery.

NROTC Scholarship to Westmoor's Kurt Hansen

Westmoor's Kurt Hansen has been accepted into the Naval Reserve Officer's Training Corps Scholarship program which provides graduating high school seniors with money to pay for tuition fees, books, and $50 in expense money, to over 50 colleges across the country.

The program, which has been in existence since 1926, serves as a "nationwide" Naval Academy, as students enrolled in the program serve four years of active duty as ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marines upon graduation from college.

To become a part of the program, students must first score well on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test or the American College Test. Then the applicant must pass a physical exam and be interviewed by two Naval officers. Those students who are deemed acceptable, have their records sent to state selection boards which make the final decision. Thus, after some 10,000 students' applications only 1500 students from across the country become a part of the program.

Kurt plans to attend either Oregon State or the University of Idaho, which are, but two of over 50 colleges having NROTC Units. While at Westmoor Kurt was active in photography and served as an editor of the yearbook, the Rambler.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

The Federal Wage Garnishment-law limits the amount of an employee's disposable earnings which may be made subject to garnishment. The term "garnishment" is defined as any state, local or federal court order requiring an employer to withhold an employee's wages for payment to a creditor.

"Earnings" is the compensation paid or payable for personal services, whether called wages, salary, commission, bonus, or otherwise and includes periodic payments pursuant to a pension or retirement program.

"Disposable earnings" are that part of an employee's earnings remaining after the deduction of any amount required by law to be withheld such as federal, state and city income tax and federal Social Security tax.

The Act has general application, and applies to every employer, employee, or creditor who has minimal involvement in interstate commerce. The maximum part of the total disposable earnings of an individual which is subject to garnishment in any workweek may not exceed the less of 25 per cent of the disposable earnings for that week or the amount by which an employee's disposable earnings for that week exceeds 30 times the Federal minimum hourly wage prescribed by the Fair Labor Standards Act in effect at the time earnings are payable.

An employee's earnings may not be garnished in any amount where his disposable earnings in a particular week are $48 or less. For those paid on a monthly basis, this amount is $208, and for those semimonthly, it is $104.

The Federal Wage Garnishment law prohibits an employer from discharging any employee because his earnings have been subjected to garnishment for any one indebtedness. The term "one indebtedness" means a single debt regardless of the number of garnishment proceedings brought to collect it.

Whoever willfully violates the discharge provisions of this law may be prosecuted criminally and fined up to $1,000, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

The Secretary of Labor may by regulation exempt from the garnishment provisions of this Act "garnishments under the laws of any State if he determines that the laws of that State provide restrictions on garnishments which are substantially similar to those provided by the Federal Act.

D.C. Man Admits He Shot Officer

Zuretti Garvin, 23, Daly City, switched his plea to guilty Monday in the robbery of a tavern and the shooting of a special policeman.

Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh set July 13 for sentencing.

Garvin had pleaded innocent to charges of assault on a peace officer and first degree robbery. He entered the change of plea just before he was to go on trial.

Special policeman Donald Fatooh, 26, was seriously wounded in the March 19 robbery at Bill's Lounge. He remains hospitalized paralyzed from the waist down because of a slug in his spine.

Donald Banks and his brother Vincent previously pleaded guilty to robbery in connection with the case. They have not been sentenced.

Students Participate in Services

"We've had it with students And we've had it good!" was the gist of the June 13 observance of United Methodist Student Day at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in South San Francisco.

Three students participated in the workshop service. Paul Pokrywka is currently enrolled at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, a United Methodist related institution and the oldest university in California.

Dan Cielocha, organist-director of the church, recently received his degree from San Francisco State College.

Bennett Falk is currently a student at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary in Berkeley, and has been working with the youth program of St. Paul's, Aldersgate United Methodist, and Our Redeemer's Lutheran Churches.

The trio reflected some of the varied concerns of the current academic generation.

The Rev. Robert Clazie is pastor of St. Paul's, located at Mill-er and Spruce Avenues in SSF.
